

Prison Rape Elimination Act

The Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) was passed in 2003 with unanimous support from both parties in Congress. The purpose of the act was to “provide for the analysis of the incidence and effects of prison rape in Federal, State, and local institutions and to provide information, resources, recommendations and funding to protect individuals from prison rape.” (Prison Rape Elimination Act, 2003). In addition to creating a mandate for significant research from the Bureau of Justice Statistics and through the National Institute of Justice, funding through the Bureau of Justice Assistance and the National Institute of Corrections supported major efforts on many state correctional, juvenile detention, community corrections, and jail systems.

The act also created the National Prison Rape Commission and charged it with developing draft standards for the elimination of prison rape. Those standards were published in 2009 and were turned over to the Department of Justice for review and passage as a final rule. The final rule became effective August 20, 2012.

In 2010, the Bureau of Justice Assistance funded the National PREA Resource Center to continue to provide federally funded training and technical assistance to states and localities, as well as to serve as a single stop resource for leading research and tools for those in the field working to come into compliance with the federal standards.

The Washington County Sheriff's Office has zero tolerance with regard to sexual abuse and sexual harassment in this facility and will take appropriate affirmative measures to protect all inmates from sexual abuse and harassment and to promptly and thoroughly investigate all allegations of sexual abuse and sexual harassment (28 CFR 115.11).

On January 20, 2021 Jail Commander Roger Heinen, Assistant Jail Administrator John Warneke, Operations Sergeant Jacqueline Dahms and Jail Programs Sergeant/PREA Coordinator David Stumpner reviewed all PREA allegations for 2020. All incidents were properly handled. As a group we also reviewed the results of 2020 Washington County Jail PREA Audit. Washington County meet all 43 standards. Two standards were Exceeded, 115.16 Inmates with Disabilities and with Limited English Proficiency, and 115.18 Upgrades to Facilities and Technologies. There were several best practice to improve. Updating and expanding the PREA Report to outline the review process, policy configuration for easier understanding, and clearer documentation of 14 day assessments by our Medical Unit. The PREA Auditor also provided several excellent resource for training more Administrative and Criminal Investigators.
